INSURANCE DEPARTMENT, June 2, 1884.

To the Honorable the Senate and House of Representatives:

This, the Second Part of the Twenty-ninth Annual Report of the department, relates to the several branches of insurance other than Fire and Marine, and exhibits the transactions and financial condition of the companies engaged therein for and at the close of the year 1883.

The authorized life companies are the same as at date of last report—twenty-eight in number. By their returns of business and finances on the 31st day of December, 1883, as compared with the previous year, this aggregate result is shown :

	1883.	1882.	Increase.
Assets, . . . .	$457,976,469	$135,797,097	$22,179,372
Surplus, . . . .	51,838,494	49,285,792	2,552,702
Number of Policies, . .	675,890	632,669	43,221
Amount of Insurance, . .	$1,719,171,452	$1,593,273,900	$125,897,552

Of the companies, one reports a decrease in assets, eight a decrease in surplus, and two a less number of policies and amount of insurance in force. But in no case can an inference of weakness or decadence be drawn thence.

This exhibit bears the evidence of well-husbanded strength and stable growth. The advance within the year in the elements of substantial prosperity is uniform with the progress of other years of the semi-decade, as more distinctly will appear in the short tabulation below:

REPORT OF THE

	Assets.	Surplus.	Policies.	Insurance.
1879, . . .	$384,344,976	$41,232,583	555,919	$1,874,946,179
1880, . . .	401,469,751	46,333,908	572,669	1,418,266,505
1881, . . .	416,822,768	47,666,428	598,862	1,495,632,802
1882, . . .	435,797,097	49,285,792	632,669	1,593,273,900
1883, . . .	457,976,469	51,838,494	675,890	1,719,171,452

Some changes from former years will be observed in the appended tables. Table B more particularly classifies the assets, and the additional table C the current business disbursements of the companies, while table I shows by divisions the number and causes of termination of policies ceased within the year. The adoption of these additional classifications in the annual reports it is thought will furnish useful data for purposes of comparison and analysis.

EXAMINATIONS OF FOREIGN COMPANIES.

The department, upon the request of the company's board of directors, has caused to be made a thorough and critical examination of the financial condition and general affairs of the Penn Mutual Life Insurance Company of Philadelphia. The general result of the examination appears in the department record found elsewhere herein, and endorses the excellent reputation borne by the company for a generation and more.

The only controversy that has arisen in the intercourse of the department with any of the life companies was in the case of the Union Mutual Life of Maine. For satisfactory reasons I deemed it my duty to investigate its affairs in accordance with the provisions of section 7 of chapter 119 of the Public Statutes. Its officers refused to submit the company's affairs to my examination, assigning as justification for refusal a reason I could not recognize as valid.

Thereupon, in exercise of a power conferred by the statute, I revoked its authority to transact business in this Commonwealth. Subsequently the company applied to be re-admitted, and after such examination, as under the circumstances I saw fit to make, its application was granted and its authority restored. My report upon its re-admission is appended.

Other examinations of foreign companies were as follows:

Metropolitan Plate Glass Insurance Co. of New York.

Lloyds Plate Glass Insurance Co. of New York.

United States Plate Glass Insurance Co. of Philadelphia.

Fidelity and Casualty Insurance Co. of New York.

Accident Assurance Co. of North America, Montreal, Canada.

Guaranty Assurance Co of North America, Montreal, Canada.

The United States Plate Glass was found not satisfactory in its management and financial condition, and its certificates of authority to transact further business in Massachusetts were revoked.

The examination of the Fidelity and Casualty related exclusively to the nature and methods of particular branches of its business, the company's financial soundness being established to my satisfaction by investigation of its affairs by the supreme court. Certain questions arose upon facts found in the examination as to the conformity of its business transactions to the requirements of Massachusetts laws; but these become unimportant in consequence of recent legislation.

The Metropolitan Plate Glass, the Lloyds, the Accident Assurance, and the Guaranty Assurance, all passed the examination with full credit, and verified their annual statements in all particulars.

The legislature has granted a special charter to Julius L. Clarke and associates to incorporate by the name of The New England Assurance Company, with a capital of $50,000 authorized to be increased to $200,000, for the transaction of plate glass insurance. The petition of the corporators asked a charter to authorize the transaction of steam boiler casualty and also fidelity in combination with plate glass insurance. But the legislation refused to make a precedent in favor of the expediency of authorizing different branches of insurance by the same corporation. This action may be taken as an assertion of the policy of the State and, as such, seems well considered.

CORPORATE SURETYSHIP AND REAL ESTATE TITLE INSURANCE.

By acts of general legislation, passed in substitution for bills to grant special charters, two features of insurance indemnity new to the Massachusetts public are legalized.

Chapter 180 of the acts of 1884 authorizes the formation of corporations, in the manner prescribed in chapter 106 of the Public Statutes, "for the purpose of examining titles to real estate, of furnishing information in relation thereto, and of guaranteeing or insuring owners of real estate and others interested therein from loss by reason of defective title and other incumbrances." Such a corporation must have a capital of not less than two hundred thousand dollars, nor more than one million dollars, and must set apart and preserve unimpaired in investments such as savings banks may make, a sum equal to two-fifths of its capital and not less than one hundred thousand dollars, as a guaranty fund for the payment of losses and expenses incurred upon its insurance liabilities. The laws in relation to insurance corporations are not applicable to these corporations further than that they must file annual statements of their affairs, and the commissioner is given power and authority to visit and examine them, as in the case of domestic insurance companies. Only one similar corporation, as I am advised—the Real Estate Title Insurance Company of Philadelphia, a well-reputed and prosperous institution—is now in operation in the United States. How considerable a demand exists or may arise for this species of insurance the event of trial must determine.

Chapter 296 of the acts of 1884 provides that companies may be formed, with a minimum capital of $200,000, "for the purpose of guaranteeing the fidelity of persons and of acting as surety on bonds," upon complying with the provisions of chapter 119 of the Public Statutes relative to the formation of insurance companies. The nature of the business such corporations may transact is defined in sections 3 and 4 of the act, which are these :

SECT. 3. Such company, if accepted and approved by the court, magistrate or other obligee, may act as surety upon the official bond of any person to the United States or to the state of Massachusetts ; to any county, city or town ; to any judge of probate and insolvency, sheriff or other court or magistrate ; to any corporation or association, public or private, and upon a bond or undertaking to any person or persons, conditioned upon the performance of any duty or trust, or for the doing or not doing of anything in said bond or undertaking specified, and to guarantee the fidelity of persons holding positions of public or private trust, or the bonds and undertakings of such persons ; also upon bonds to indemnify against loss any person or persons, who are responsible as surety or sureties upon a written instrument or otherwise, for the faithful performance by others of any trust, office or duty ; and in any case where, by law or otherwise, two sureties are required upon any obligation which this company is hereby authorized to assume, this company may act as sole surety, if so accepted and approved by the court, magistrate or other officer named as the obligee in the bond, or who is now or shall hereafter be required to approve the sufficiency of any such bond or undertaking.

SECT. 4. The amount of responsibility incurred by said company in behalf of any one person, partnership or company, shall not exceed the amount of ten per centum upon its paid-in capital, except where the company shall be fully secured or guaranteed against all loss in consequence of responsibility incurred in excess of said limited amount of ten per centum, by the deposit with the company or conveyance to it of property fully worth at a fair and reasonable valuation the amount of such excess.

Fidelity insurance, or the guaranty of indemnity against loss from breach of trust or other delinquency by persons in private fiduciary employment, is somewhat familiar to our business circles. Two foreign companies have successfully engaged in it within the jurisdiction for several years past. But that feature of the above legislation which permits corporate contracts of suretyship, in place of personal sureties, on bonds of public officers and on bonds or undertakings of persons holding trusts by judicial appointment or subject to judicial obligations, authorizes an innovation upon ancient and cherished custom, which may jar conservative prejudices. Under a proper surveillance by courts and a careful magistracy I discover no objection that outweighs the advantages. No tribunal or magistrate is obliged to approve such surety, and its acceptance or rejection is left to discretion as in the case of the sufficiency of personal sureties. That the State in the administration of trusts by its tribunals should carefully guard the safety of the estates and interests in its custody, is a duty impressively enjoined, and the consideration simply is whether corporate suretyship assures such safety as efficiently as any other mode. Whether it does or not, evidently depends upon the integrity and ability of the corporation to perform the obligation it assumes, and thence arises the need of a careful watchfulness of the affairs of these corporations by the civil and judicial authorities. New York in her judicial administration has given an illustration of this proper vigilance. The supreme court of that state within a year has caused the financial condition of the Fidelity and Casualty Company to be thoroughly investigated by an officer of the court, to determine its competency as surety on bonds or undertakings in judicial procedure. And the recommendation is prudently urged that similar investigations be annually had under authority of the court.

The American Surety Company of New York has recently organized with a half million dollars of capital for the transaction of all branches of fidelity insurance, and I am advised that companies composed of prominent men of Boston, with a liberal financial basis, are in process of formation under the acts above referred to.

The domain of insurance steadily enlarges as if with intent to embrace all sorts of relievable misfortune within its benevolent jurisdiction.

THE COLOR LINE IN INSURANCE.

A peculiar measure of legislation is the recent act entitled "An Act to prevent discrimination by life insurance companies against color." Sections 1 and 2 of the act are as follows :

SECTION 1. No life insurance company organized or doing business within this Commonwealth shall make any distinction or discrimination between white persons and colored persons wholly or partially of African descent, as to the premiums or rates charged for policies upon the lives of such persons; nor shall any such company demand or require greater premiums from such colored persons than such as are at that time required by such company from white persons of the same age, sex, general condition of health and hope of longevity; nor shall any such company make or require any rebate, diminution or discount upon the sum to be paid on such policy in case of the death of such colored person insured, nor insert in the policy any condition, nor make any stipulation whereby such person insured shall bind himself or his heirs, executors, administrators and assigns to accept any sum less than the full value or amount of such policy in case of a claim accruing thereon by reason of the death of such person insured, other than such as are imposed upon white persons in similar cases; and any such stipulation or condition so made or inserted shall be void.

SECT. 2. Any such company which shall refuse the application of any such colored person for insurance upon such person's life, shall furnish such person with the certificate of some regular examining physician of such company who has made examination of such person, stating that such person's application has been refused, not because such person is a person of color, but solely upon such grounds of the general health and hope of longevity of such person as would be applicable to white persons of the same age and sex.

The act itself discriminates in favor of one class of persons, as its benefits, if benefits they are, are conferred only upon such colored persons as are "of African descent."

The sufficient occasion and good reason for this legislation is not evident. Its only basis appears to have been the fact that one or two companies engaged in industrial insurance made a difference in certain localities in rates of insurance upon the lives of white and colored persons. This, however, was not a discrimination on account of color, but on account of the difference in longevity of the two races, assumed in good faith and apparently supported by mortality statistics. That the distinction was dictated by race prejudice is not conceivable. The whole structure of life insurance rests upon a calculation of the probabilities of longevity and a just proportion of insurance charge to the risk taken, and to compel a company to insure for the same rates different classes of people with different prospects of longevity would be to establish a grossly unjust discrimination against the longer lived class in favor of the shorter lived class.

Massachusetts, in loyalty to just principles and to atone episodes of past history not remembered with pride, does well and wisely to deprecate and ban all distinctions founded on caste, and to protect with the shield of law the equality of all her citizens in civil privileges. But, it seems, the affairs of ordinary commerce might safely and better be left to the regulation of the natural influences and laws of trade, in the absence of clear demonstration of substantial wrong done. An insurance company can scarcely be deemed to sustain relations to the people equivalent to those of inn-holders and common carriers, and properly amenable to like control by public law.

VALUATION OF LIFE POLICIES. RESERVE STANDARD.

The fees to be paid hereafter by the companies as compensation for the valuing of their policies will be five mills for each thousand dollars of insurance on lives. This reduces by one-half the charge heretofore made. The reduction is just, and the legislation to effect it was recommended by the Commissioner, as the fees now fixed will cover the cost of valuation. The need of a special department of insurance supervision was created by the business, and it is reasonable that the business should support it; but it hardly comports with the dignity of the Commonwealth to aid its general revenues by exaction of fees beyond the expense needs of the special service. Our insurance interests bear their full share of the common burden in taxation levied by the ordinary mode.

A disputed question has been, and, perhaps, still is, the proper standard to measure the liability and determine the legal reserve upon prudential or industrial policies. The New York department, in the exercise of a liberal discretion, saw fit in its last valuation to adopt a basis different from the one formerly in use, by which new method the liability and computed reserve is made to appear considerably less. This will explain the difference between the department valuations of above $190,000 in the reported liabilities of the principal company engaged in the transaction of that insurance in the United States. The subject is likely to have further consideration by the national convention of superintendents and commissioners, and I forbear to now discuss the law or its merits as applicable to these policy obligations.

New York has just enacted a law to take effect three years hence, fixing the legal standard of reserve in accordance with the actuaries' table of mortality and four per cent. interest. In urging this legislation Superintendent McCall of the New York department gracefully pays a compliment to Massachusetts for the constancy and firmness with which her representatives have defended and adhered to that rule in all periods of controversy. Mr. McCall cites the fact that of thirty-six companies which in 1870 could abide the test of the New York standard, but not of Massachusetts, all but four were subsequently placed in the hands of receivers. So complete a vindication of her policy by the judgment of experience justifies a degree of satisfied pride, yet Massachusetts cheerfully shares the honor with the conservative body of sagacious men in the business, who sustained the rule adopted by her insurance department at the outset as the true standard of safety.

THE MASSACHUSETTS LIFE COMPANIES.

Four of the home life companies — the John Hancock, the Berkshire, the State Mutual, and the New England Mutual — have been examined by the department since I assumed the office of Commissioner. Reports of these examinations will be found in this volume immediately preceding the tables. The examination of the Massachusetts Mutual, so far as made, finds the affairs of that company in creditable order, and is complete with the exception of an appraisement to be had of the company's real estate and mortgage investments, a part of the investigation I was obliged to delay for a season in deference to other duties, but which will be speedily done.

The only previous official examination of these companies was by Commissioner Rhodes in 1878, and the intelligence and thoroughness with which that service was performed has materially assisted the labor of the more recent examination. Mr. Rhodes' examination found the companies then in excellent condition, and I find them now even more firmly established in the essentials of prosperity and permanence.

Without offence I may be indulged in some congratulation upon the past stainless history and present sound and stable condition of the life insurance institutions of the State. While, elsewhere, serious scandals have disgraced the business management and impaired confidence in the system itself, and numerous unworthy organizations have abused and betrayed the trust reposed in them, no company organized by the authority and subject to the laws of Massachusetts has defaulted in any of its obligations. This fortunate record must be attributed to the sagacity of our legislation, and to the fidelity and conservative policy of the able and honorable managers entrusted with the administration of these interests.

ASSESSMENT ASSURANCE. WHAT IT IS.

This department is not unfriendly to assessment insurance in its legitimate enterprise. The Commissioner has no right, as he has no disposition, to misuse his authority by prejudiced treatment of any of the interests or organizations with which he holds official relations, and which exist by sanction of law. To deal with impartial justice by all is alike his felt duty and care. But it falls within his province to advise the people of the nature of the insurance and the character and methods of the associations which offer it, that they may better estimate its merits and availability for their use, and not be misled by the misrepresentations of interested partisans.

The assessment plan is a simple mode of temporary insurance dependent for its duration upon the continuance of the association which furnishes it. The association is voluntary and held together by no compulsory bond, and may dissolve when it chooses. Whatever the form of the contract—whatever is written in the policy or certificate—the insurance ceases and the contract becomes worthless when the association dissolves or is unable to enforce the collection of assessments from its members, for such assessments are its only resource. The contract, in fact, is a promise to pay provided the association shall be able to pay when the contract is payable. Whatever other useful purpose a reserve fund of an assessment association may serve, it is utterly inadequate as an assurance of the ability of the association to perform the letter of its obligations. At most, it is no more than the surplus above the reserve of a regular life company. But the dissolution of the association and the cessation of the insurance works no injustice, provided it does not outlive its ability to meet its engagements, and if the insured member was not misled as to the nature of his contract; for he has had the protection of the insurance he paid for, at actual cost. The market where he bought his insurance from day to day is closed, and can sell no more — that is all. Nevertheless, the assessment assured must contemplate the possibility that when his particular insurance market closes, if it does in his lifetime, he may then be unable to obtain insurance elsewhere because of physical disability contracted in the meantime.

The statement of a few evident facts should make clear to the commonest apprehension the distinction between the two systems of life insurance and the advantages or defects of each. The contract of a policy-holder in a level premium or "old line" company covers the whole life or a definite term, absolutely; the price he pays is calculated with reference to the whole life or term; and the scheme provides the company's ability to perform the exact terms of the contract. The insured pays in the earlier years more than the normal cost of his current insurance, and the excess goes to his credit and constitutes the company's reserve fund of which he owns the share he contributes, and which guarantees his future insurance to the end of life or term. The member of an assessment association buys a temporary insurance with a chance it may last while he lives. The policy-holder in a life company buys a current insurance, and also a right to future insurance secured by substantial and adequate pledge. One is cheaper in present cost — the other is surer of permanence and as cheap if reckoned for the whole period — and each is worth its cost provided the conditions of integrity and capable management are fulfilled in each. The stability of a life company is assured by its ownership of sound assets sufficient to enable it to pay in full its obligations as they fall due, early and remote. The stability of an assessment association rests solely on the probabilities that it will maintain its effective organization.

And here the Commissioner takes fit occasion to say in reply to oft question that as to these probabilities the general public have the same facilities to form an opinion that he has, and each individual must act upon the responsibility of his own judgment. This report contains such information as the department has of the transactions and present condition of the several assessment associations as well as the life companies.

The familiar fact that elsewhere numerous associations have abused the public confidence and gone out in disgrace is by no means conclusive of the worthlessness of the assessment method. Such logic, if accepted, would bury the old with the new in a common sepulchre. A good plan may fail from faulty execution. With a judicious selection of lives, an equitable gradation of assessments, and sufficient admissions of new members to replace those who go out by death or otherwise, together with honesty and intelligence in its affairs, I see no reason why an association on the assessment plan should not prosper and usefully serve a public want in furnishing a desired sort of insurance at a cheap rate. But the cautious man, whose object is by insurance upon his life to secure a certain inheritance for his family, is not likely to put his trust in assessment assurance.

MASSACHUSETTS ASSESSMENT SOCIETIES.

The Massachusetts societies, with certain common features, are various in the composition of their membership and mode of government, and incidental objects and conditions, but capable of a classification accurate enough to exhibit their distinctive character and indicate their proper public relations.

(1.) The Masonic and Odd Fellows associations, twenty-five in number with 21,440 members, are composed exclusively of affiliated Masons and Odd Fellows, respectively, are purely mutual and self-governing and under efficient organization. (2.) Associations which limit their membership to persons of a particular guild, profession, or employment, as passenger railway conductors, clergymen, commercial travellers, members of fire departments, and police officers. These number nine and report 3,358 members. (3.) The secret orders, of which the Knights of Honor, the Royal Arcanum, and the Knights of Pythias, are conspicuous examples, organized and conducted upon the lodge system. This division includes nineteen corporations with a Massachusetts membership of 39,313.

All the above classified associations combine the social element or class fraternal spirit with mutual insurance as their motive and bond of union. During my term in office thus far I have had from no member of these associations or orders any complaint or request for information or advice as to the nature of the insurance they give or the administration of their affairs. By the character and selection of their associates, and the methods of their government, the members are in position to understand and defend their rights and interests, without the intervention of special laws for their protection. And, as the facts now appear, I deprecate any such legislation, upon the principle that the State should not abridge the social and commercial freedom of the people in any enterprise not prejudicial to good morals, unless demanded for the public safety or convenience.

Besides the above specified classes of associations, we have thirty-seven engaged in assessment insurance, indiscriminate in their membership, except as to health qualifications, and conducted in all respects as ordinary business enterprises. Some are mutual, and all the members of such are entitled to a voice in the direction of their affairs; but practically, and for obvious reasons, they are managed by a few active individuals, as all large mutual companies are. Others are simply close corporations, with a very limited membership, and organized and carried on for profit by a few stockholders or individuals who constitute the corporation. The insured pay to the corporation stated fees and dues, which produce the expense fund, and whatever is left of it after the payment of expenses, is divided between the corporators as profits. The corporation assumes no obligation to the insured, not even to the extent of its surplus revenue over expenses, except to collect assessments, if it can, and to pay death losses if it obtains sufficient funds for that purpose. Thus the corporators incur no liability, are exposed to no loss they cannot avoid, and anticipate liberal gains unearned by service or venture of capital. They are not obliged to apply the expense income to the promotion of the stability of the association. When they please, and they are likely to please when it ceases to prove profitable to them, or such a course seems for their advantage, they can let the corporation die. I find no warrant in the law for corporations of this sort. The statute authorizes the formation of associations for the purpose of rendering assistance to its members and their dependents. It does not authorize corporations to make contracts of assessment insurance with persons other than members, and the persons insured by the corporations referred to are not members in the sense of the statute. Equally without authority of law and of doubtful propriety, in my opinion, are certain methods pursued by some of the associations, notably the club plan of insurance, of which I made mention in my last annual report, and the creation by various modes of a separate fund not applicable, in the manner the statute prescribes, to the payment of benefits.

ASSESSMENT ASSURANCE LEGISLATION.

The legislature, unfortunately, though giving much consideration to the subject by its committees and in debate of proposed measures, at its late session was unable to agree upon specific legislation in regard to assessment assurance. This failure was due, it appears, not to a denial of the expediency of legislation, but to a conflict of views of what legislation is expedient. I may, therefore, without impertinence, urge the subject anew upon the consideration of the legislature when it shall again assemble.

If assessment assurance is given public countenance, and so commended to popular favor, the State should by appropriate legislation secure a just administration of the corporations, so that the people may realize the full benefits of the system, and be protected from the imposition and abuse to which it opens opportunities and temptations and with which other communities have become acquainted by costly experience. Now, the powers and limitations of the corporations are not defined with clearness, nor is authority for effective superintendence given the Commissioner; although some of the associations, to win public confidence, assume that their affairs, in some effective manner, are supervised by the insurance department. This claim, in justice to the department and to the public I am bound to deny. The authority of the Commissioner extends no further than to obtain and publish for general information the annual statements of the associations. That done, his responsibility is discharged. The publicity thus given doubtless serves a useful purpose. Beyond that effect, the supervision provided by law I regard of no value, and it certainly is not of a character and efficiency of itself to warrant trust in the good conduct of the associations. Supervision means simply the enforcement of the laws, and without efficient laws there can be no efficient supervision.

Seven associations report for the first time. Three have dissolved their organization. Several others have been formed but did no business prior to Dec. 31, 1883, and therefore make no returns to the department as yet. The general result, as shown above, indicates the continued favor of the public towards the assessment method of insurance, and emphasizes the propriety of legislation for the protection of the interests involved. As our laws do not admit assessment companies of other States to transact business here, the Massachusetts companies will be debarred that privilege in those States.

LIFE INSURANCE. ITS PERILS AND SAFETY.

The law of the survival of the fit has been active in the genesis period of life insurance in this country, and has nearly wrought its perfect work. Many ill-conditioned enterprises of illegitimate birth and nurture, have perished in the order of nature ; some by violence and under the curse of disobedience to the inexorable laws of life and health. A few yet languish to their doom. The rest seem well builded and in condition to strengthen and broaden their solid base.

There were sixty-five companies legally qualified in Massachusetts in 1870. There are now twenty-eight. Forty-five from other States have come and gone within the quarter century, — a large majority of them to unhonored graves. The collapse of such as never had an adequate reason for existence was perfectly logical and perhaps essential to the stability of the rest. Some mischief attended the process, but the history is not singular from that of the inception and development of most of the kindred useful commercial establishments which are the boast and benefaction of our social Commonwealth. Of the twenty-eight companies authorized in this State, the youngest is nine years old, and of the others, only four are under twenty. The junior of the Massachusetts companies was incorporated in 1862, and efforts since to form others proved abortive. The established companies appear amply able to serve the public demand as it grows, and the prospect does not indicate the formation of new companies, east of the Pacific slope, for a generation to come.

For the future of life insurance in this country we may anticipate great companies, custodians of vast funds. With its immense growth in volume and importance the responsibilities of the business proportionately increase and, in certain aspects, its perils. The assets of the United States companies to-day approximate $500,000,000, and they grow larger year by year. To keep these vast sums in safe and desirable investments, and realize thereon the requisite income, in the present and prospective monetary condition of the country, is a matter of obvious difficulty and justifies grave concern. The management of the hundred million dollars worth of investments which a single company now holds is a burden of responsibility equal to the government of a great State, and asks the highest qualities of business prudence as well as probity. Should these important financial interests fall into unskilful or dishonest hands the possible and not improbable consequences cannot be contemplated with composure. An insurance company is not more secure than a national bank from ruin by unfaithful administration and commercial disasters. These however are the common perils inseparable from social institutions, and while they challenge vigilance and all wise precautions human foresight can devise, ought not to create distrust. The situation teaches two important conditions of safety for an insurance company to observe: (1), the avoidance of all "entangling alliances," and especially any sort of speculative relation with other financial interests; and (2), to hold its financial responsibilities within the narrowest consistent limits, and burden itself with no duties it is not obliged to assume.

In this connection I am moved to express a regret, shared in I believe by the conservative and most sagacious men in the business, that our insurance establishments have adopted schemes of insurance whereby they have become so largely institutions of investment. Twenty years ago endowment insurance constituted less than one-twelfth of the business of the companies. Now it is fully one-fourth. Of the present funds of the companies, not less, I judge, than a hundred million dollars is accumulation on account of endowments and Tontines. This may be legitimate, in a certain sense, but has no just relation to life insurance. To unite, more than need be for the assurance of its contracts, the proper business of an insurance company with the functions of a savings bank, makes a combination both incongruous and unwise. That the ordinary short-term endowment, which is a little insurance and a great deal investment, is not desirable as either, is capable of mathematical demonstration, and is alike impolitic for the companies and unprofitable for the policy-holder. The eloquence of the solicitor, inspired by the hope of a liberal commission, may deceive the uninstructed, but cannot impeach the fact. A provident person will do wiser to buy his insurance of an insurance company, and make his deposits, if he wishes to make investments of that character, with some regular savings institution whose sole business is the administration of trust funds. The endowment assured, if he lives out his term, realizes no advantage from the endowment part of his contract, and if he dies within the term he loses on the insurance part the difference between endowment and insurance rates. As for the company which deals in endowments, it thereby needlessly assumes the obligations and responsibilities of a banker in addition to the obligations and responsibilities of an insurer, and prejudices its safety as an insurance institution by exposure to the dangers incident to its banking operations. If these propositions are well-founded, it results that sound policy should regard with disfavor the inventions of investment insurance which recent practice has unwisely grafted on the original system.

There is a moral as well as commercial and politic side to this matter. The only legitimate income of an insurance company in the nature of profits is the gains from its funds. All of its other revenue not used for payment of losses and expenses is justly due to be returned to those who contributed it, not as profits but as overcharge on cost of insurance. That an insurance company can be relied on to manage funds to better advantage than ordinary institutions of investment is not credible. From these clear premises the conclusion is inevitable that an insurance company can realize superior profits for some of its investment policy-holders only at the expense of its other policy-holders. What somebody gains somebody else must lose! Massachusetts has signified by just legislation her disapprobation of such mercenary commerce, and sought to divorce insurance from speculation. All her laws against inequitable forfeiture rest on this firm base of natural justice.

These reflections do not relate to that class of insurance where the policy is payable at the end of the ordinary limit of productive human life. That form is virtually the equivalent of whole-life insurance, with a benevolent provision by which the insured, should his life be lengthened to that limit, can command the personal enjoyment of it in dependent old age.

ECONOMY IN COST OF LIFE INSURANCE.

A study of the plan of life insurance compels admiration for the genius that designed it. It is as safe, equitable, and nearly perfect as anything of social creation. Any failure or injustice attending it must be referred to the execution and not the plan. By the plan the policy-holder is sure to get what he pays for, and to pay only the fair cost of what he gets. The reproach of expensiveness sought to be cast upon scientific life insurance cannot hold, unless it be shown that the conduct of the business is attended with needless expense. Our concern is therefore with the administration, confident the foundation is safe.

To determine if an insurance company is "well established," as a former commissioner aptly terms it, the "obvious test" is the possession of funds sufficient by approved standards of computation of liability to meet its obligations as they shall mature. This is held true, provided a good selection of lives, full mutual premiums adequately loaded for expense income, and a satisfactory investment of the reserve. And the application of the test is ordinarily not difficult. But well-establishment, in the sense of stability, is not conclusive of good management, which implies more than the maintenance of the establishment. A company, though solvent, is yet not properly managed if it spends beyond its real needs. Solvency, if maintained, makes certain the payment of the amount of insurance at maturity of the contract. But the policy-holder's further right is to have his insurance for a just price; and whether he so gets it depends on whether the reserve and surplus funds, which are his, are thrifitily managed or not, and whether the needful machinery of the business, the expenses of which he pays, is carried on economically or not. And thus the question of frugal and capable administration becomes second only in importance to the question of present well-establishment, since extravagance or incapacity may impair the present stability and surely will do injustice.

That well-managed companies are entitled to credit, and ill-managed companies should not escape exposure of their faults in official reports, is a proposition of even-handed justice in accord with business morals and the public welfare. If capable prudence and wasteful incompetence in these institutions enjoy equal honor, the former will be insecure in its supremacy. And while a superintendent of insurance has no commission to pronounce the respective merits of the several competitors, he may and should exhibit, as clearly as may be, such facts in regard to them as fairly instruct the judgment.

The law, the science of mathematics, the collected results of human experience, lamps to our feet in the untrodden future, together supply the “obvious test” of financial soundness. But a rule of general application by which to determine from the sum of its transactions whether an insurance company is prudently conducted under existing conditions, is a yet unsatisfied want. The several comparative ratios introduced in the tabulations probably possess a use and value for some purposes, but they are safe only in skilful hands, and may be instruments of great wrong in the hands of the ignorant and malicious. They are in no proper sense of the term “tests” of prudent management and their significance can be judged only when weighed in connection with other elements and conditions.

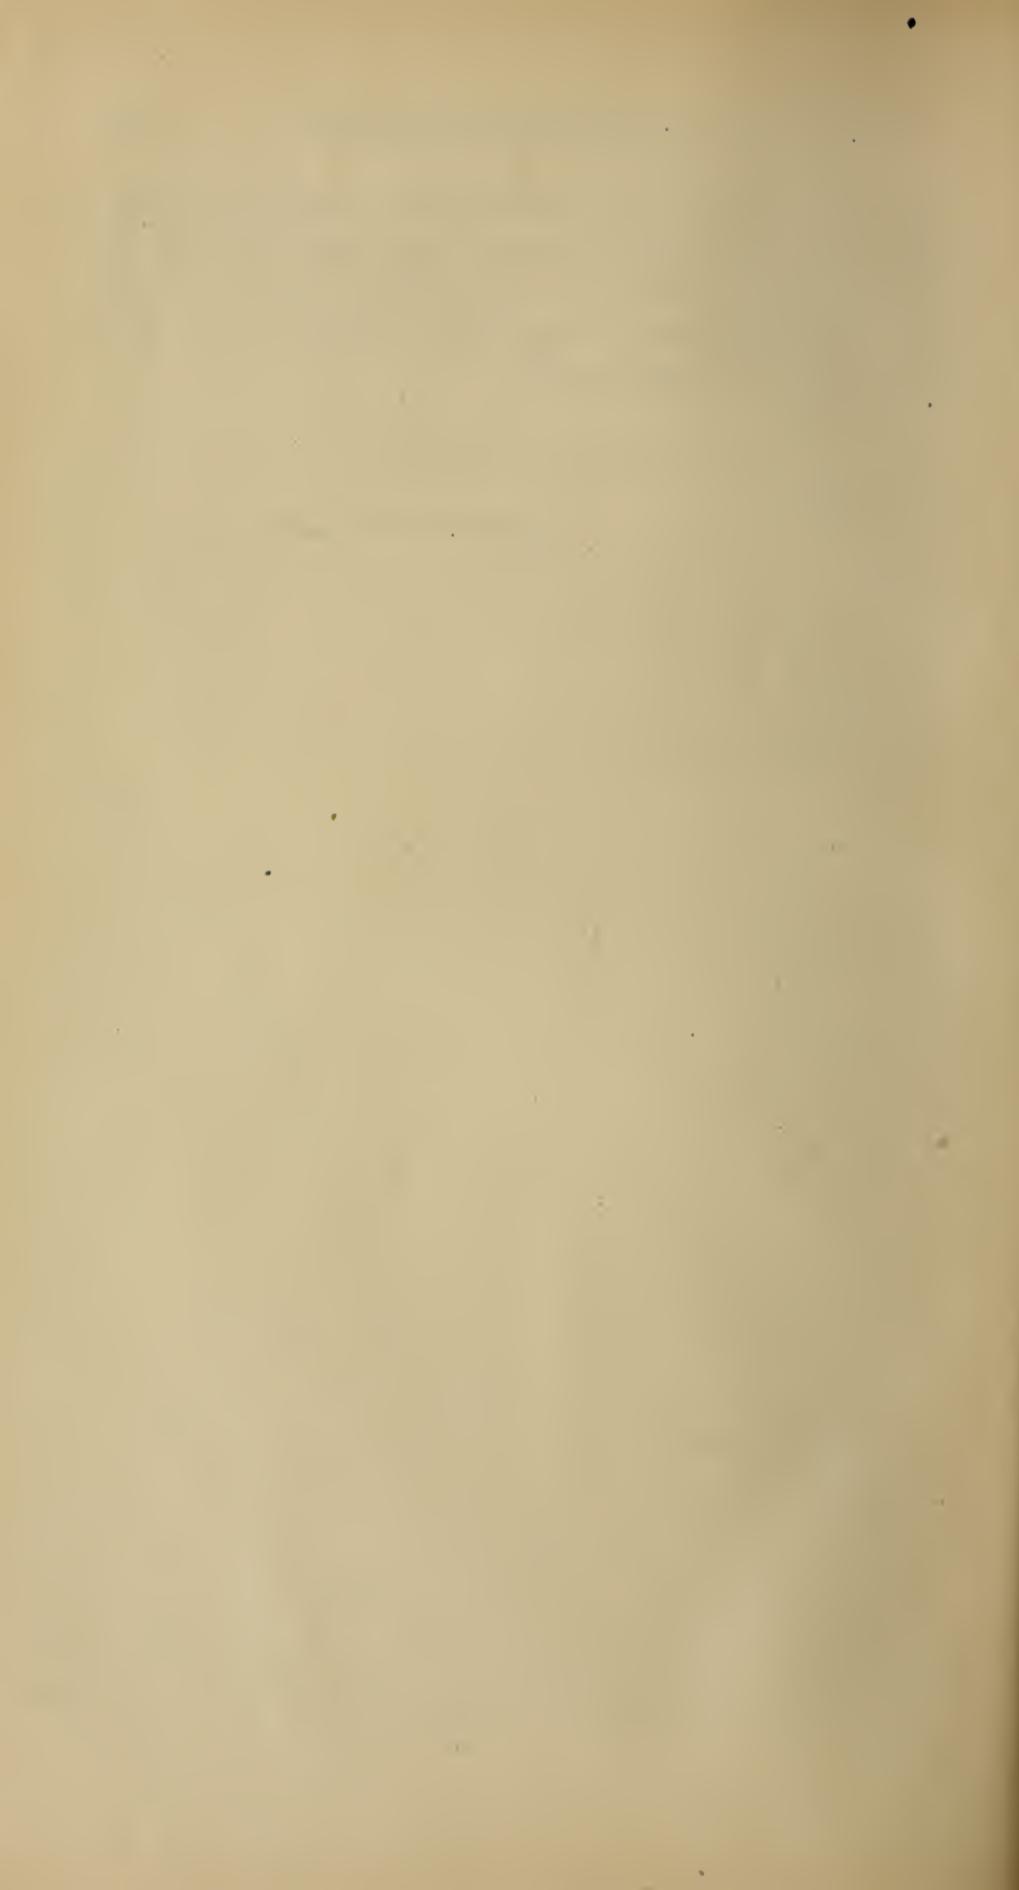

These comments are in part induced by the urgency with which certain comparative exhibits of the affairs and transactions of the companies have been urged upon my official adoption. The aim of the department is to encourage and promote the virtues of economy and wise caution in the government of the important institutions which administer so great trusts, by a full recognition and award of credit for their faithful practice. And the commissioner will welcome and adopt any mode of presentation of pertinent facts calculated, in his opinion, fairly to show the degree of fidelity with which the companies observe the prime essentials of just and safe administration — care in the selection of insurable lives, prudence in expenditure, integrity and sound discretion in their investments.

Respectfully submitted.

JOHN K. TARBOX,

Insurance Commissioner.

BERKSHIRE LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY, PITTSFIELD.

The annual statement by the company as to its financial condition on the 31st of December, 1882, admitted by the Department, was as follows:

Ledger accounts,	3,403	56
	$3,100,092	96
Surplus as to policy holders,	477,041	50

This examination was to verify the above statement and to inquire generally as to the company's condition and affairs.

The statement is found correct as to loans on collateral and the securities therein are approved as sufficient.

The company owned and still own (with the exception of $18,000 of the town of Pittsfield loan since paid) the bonds and stocks specified in their schedule. These securities, I am of opinion, could now be realized upon for at least the amount of the company's valuation, which is a considerable advance upon cost; and as to the principal of them I have no cause to anticipate a future depreciation; but as they are held in the nature of a permanent investment and subject to contingencies affecting their market values, I consider a reduction of ten thousand in the aggregate estimate a prudent margin against possible over-valuation.

The real estate of the company consists of its Home office building at Pittsfield and various parcels of real estate in Massachusetts and in Indianapolis, Indiana, acquired by mortgage foreclosure. Its loans outside the State are almost exclusively upon real estate within or in the near vicinage of the great and growing centres of population and business, Cleveland, Detroit, Indianapolis, and Chicago. As these classes of assets comprise so large a proportion of the company's property, I gave them careful consideration.

I visited personally each parcel of real estate in Massachusetts owned by or loaned upon by the company, and satisfied myself by observation and inquiry as to its value. The real estate in Indianapolis was appraised in detail by persons of whose integrity and judgment I am fully assured, and they return a valuation in the aggregate of $45,014 above the company's claim in its annual statement. Similarly by special appraisement, or by other evidence, I am satisfied of the sufficiency of the real estate securities in other States, with a single exception, in which case a loss of perhaps a thousand dollars of the loan is probable. The Home office building, in my judgment, is a good investment at its cost.

Upon the whole examination I find the real estate worth the valuation claimed for it and that the loans on real estate are satisfactorily secured.

The annual statement in other particulars is found accurate. The item of "Sundry Ledger Credits" in the statement of Liabilities appears as $3,403.56 by a clerical error; the amount stated should be $3,043.56, a correction in the company's favor and conformable to its books. Changes in investments up to date of actual examination have been as follows:

What reliable surplus an insurance company has for the protection of its contracts is necessarily in some degree a matter of opinion and cannot be determined with exact mathematical precision. In the examination of the Berkshire by the careful and intelligent Commissioner of this Department in 1877 its surplus was then reckoned at $314,-912.69. My opinion, based upon this examination, is that its present surplus can, with abundant caution, be placed at not less than $450,000, with a reasonable probability that it may equal or exceed the estimate of its annual statement.

My examination discloses no weakness in the present financial condition or business basis of the company. It engages only in those methods of insurance to which experience has given a character of legitimacy and proven by successful practice. Its premium rates are adjusted to scientific standards, with due regard to safety, and its risks are selected with care. Its expenses of management are reasonable. With a continuance of the integrity and prudence which appear now to characterize the conduct of its interests, I apprehend no disaster to its fortunes.

JOHN HANCOCK MUTUAL LIFE INSURANCE CO.,
BOSTON.

[JUNE 13, 1883.]

For convenience, the examination was as to the condition of the company on the thirty-first day of December, 1882, the date of the sworn annual statement made by its officers to this Department and the statement herein made of its assets and liabilities refers to that date. But sufficient further investigation of its transactions and affairs subsequent to Dec. 31, 1882, was made to show that no material change had occurred in the financial condition of the company up to the date of actual examination.

As to the real estate assets, I caused the several parcels located in Massachusetts, to be visited and appraised. The parcels of real estate situated without the Commonwealth, I did not personally examine or cause to be appraised by agents of the Department, as the appropriation available for the use of the Department does not warrant the expenditures which such a valuation would involve. As to the value of such real estate my opinion is based upon statements of the officers of the company and the certificates or statements of local real estate experts and supposed competent judges and valuations made in a former examination by this Department. This remark also applies to my inquiry into the values of the real estate mortgages held by the company as security for its loans.

The investments of the company seem to have been made with care and judgment, and except in very rare instances with good fortune.

I verified the annual statement as to the specific assets owned by the company on the thirty-first day of December, 1882, and also as to its liabilities on that date. The company's valuation of its real estate is reduced by the sum of $2,200. In other respects its annual statement to the Department is found correct and approved by this examination.

On the thirty-first day of December, A. D. 1882, the assets and liabilities of the company are found to have been as follows:—

--	-------------

The John Hancock alone of the Massachusetts Life Companies, does Industrial or Prudential Insurance. Its business in this branch is confined to the Middle and Eastern States excepting only a small business in Baltimore. Policies are issued upon satisfactory medical examinations and the premiums graded on scientific data with adequate loading for extra expense of agents and collectors; and of a total insurance of $5,096,488 in force, only $462,118 is upon lives under ten years of age.

As a result of the cost of establishing this branch of its business, the annual statements of the company show an unusual ratio of expense to income during the four years past and a reduction of surplus in that period. The management claims that this expense is wisely incurred and will be amply justified by future results. The weekly collections upon prudential policies now average nearly $5,000, and the company confidently promises, upon warrant of the present condition of the business, a satisfactory exhibit for the current year.

MEMORANDUM.

JUNE 19, 1883.

In the examination of the affairs and condition of the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Co., I personally inspected and inquired into the value of the real estate situated on Fulton Street in Brooklyn, in the State of New York, owned by the company at the date of its last annual statement and now held by it in mortgage. I found the property in good condition and repair, well rented, in an eligible locality for property of its class, appreciated in market value within five years, with decided prospects of further appreciation, and yielding an annual rental of between nine and ten thousand dollars. I am satisfied it is fully worth the company's valuation as made in their last annual statement.

Adjacent lot and building on Congress Street, . . . . .	41,820 98
And lot and building 70 State Street, . . . . .	174,650 00

The balance of the real estate consists of eight parcels of ground and buildings situated in Boston and vicinity valued at $101,649.84, three pieces in St. Louis, $22,900, and two in Chicago, $39,144.72. With the exception of the three first named and one in Chicago, which are original purchases, the real estate owned was acquired by foreclosure of mortgages, and is carried on the books at lower values than assessors' appraisals and estimates of experts, and is undoubtedly worth in market more than the amounts claimed.

The loans on mortgages which were made previous to last examination of the company by this Department and still remaining in force have in many cases been decreased by partial payments of principal, and on none have additional loans been made or interest allowed to accrue to an amount nearly approaching the company's limit of security, and as they were all amply protected at that time, as shown by careful appraisals of experts independent of local assessors and company's estimates, and as the assessments of last year show the values to have been fully maintained and often largely increased, it has not been deemed necessary to cause new expert appraisals to be made, and very especially when it is considered that the total sum loaned on mortgages is less than the surplus of the company by a quarter million dollars. So also of subsequent mortgage loans, the same margin of safety has been observed, as shown by comparison with assessors' valuations. These properties loaned upon are almost wholly located in Boston and its near vicinity. The loans on collateral of stocks and bonds, as also the stocks and bonds owned by the company, were all examined in detail and found to correspond in description and value with the amounts claimed in the company's annual statement. The premium notes and loans were examined seriatim and compared with the schedules accompanying annual statement, which were afterwards tested by comparison with Department registers, and were in all cases found to belong to policies in force and in less amount than the net value of the policy. The same also with deferred notes and outstanding premium account.

Cash in banks was verified by the cash books, check books, and certificates of cashiers as to deposits and balances on date of statement.

The reserve charged in the liability account is the amount ascertained by computations in the Department, and is less than the company charges itself by $11,190, which excess is on account of certain contingencies considered by the examiner as too remote to be charged as a liability. The matured claims are entered at gross amounts, which are subject to considerable reduction by offsets of notes, loans, deferred premiums and other items fairly chargeable against them.

STATE MUTUAL LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY, WORCESTER.

[MARCH, 1884.]

All the items of the company's annual statement to the Department as of December 31, 1883, were verified in the examination, both as to its financial condition on that date and its transactions during the year.

ASSETS.

The real estate consists of an undivided half of the building in which is the company's principal office, and a lot of land with appurtenances, which is valued in the statement at $37,500; this is thought a low valuation. The property is assessed at a higher value for purposes of municipal taxation. The company's mortgage loans are, in number, 54, for $189,915 principal, and all upon real estate within the Commonwealth. No interest upon these loans is overdue, and the security is judged ample in every instance.

The sole collateral loan of $1,900 was found secure by sufficient pledge of local bank stock.

The company's possession and ownership of the bonds and stocks in its schedules, and their cost, were verified by inspection of these securities and examination of the books of the company, and the market value of the same, as claimed in the statement, approved for $2,929,760.

Loans to policy-holders on policies assigned as collateral, $20,002. The policies, duly assigned, were in the company's possession, and interest on the loans paid to date due. Premium notes on policies in force were found, of the amount of $42,486.61. These consist of loan notes maturing within the policy year, given in part payment of the annual premium.

The cash in banks was verified as follows :

Deposit in the Worcester National Bank, . . . . .	$33,460 54
Deposit in the Quinsigamond National Bank, . . . . .	6,764 13
A total of, . . . . .	$40,224 67

The item of accrued interest was ascertained upon critical examination as slightly understated in the statement as $40,000.

Total assets, . . . . .	$3,301,788 28

LIABILITIES.

Amount due on account of losses by death was $26,000 : of this amount $15,000 was resisted claims; one for $10,000 on a policy upon the life of Walton Dwight, and another for $5,000. This, with the legal reserve on policies in force, which is computed at $2,611,398, comprises the total liabilities of the company, . . . . .	2,637,398 00
Surplus, . . . . .	$664,390 28

The company's annual statement of income and disbursements for 1883 was also verified in each item.

An increase of $84,265.69 in premium receipts over the previous year is shown; also an increase of $2,145,768 in amount of insurance and of 546 in number of policies in force.

The ratio of current expenses of management to premium income is  $23\frac{2}{10}\frac{5}{10}$  per cent., somewhat larger than in the previous year, but still within the provision made for the same in the premiums, and the increased volume of business is the company's warrant for the increase in expenditures.

The death losses of the company within the year were considerably less than anticipated by the combined experience table of mortality, upon which the premiums are calculated. From a computation of the mortality experience of the company to January 1, 1882, made by its actuary, it appears that the death losses have been but  $66\frac{4}{10}$  per cent. of the mortality table expectation; on ages from 14 to 49 inclusive,  $69\frac{6}{10}$  per cent.; and on ages from 50 and over,  $63\frac{6}{10}$  per cent., showing a larger gain on vitality account upon the advanced ages.

There appears nothing in the condition of the company or the management of its affairs which calls for or would justify other than approbatory comment.

PENN MUTUAL LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY,
PHILADELPHIA, PENN.

[MARCH, 1884.]

This examination was made upon the request of the officers of the company. Mr. Noah A. Plympton and Mr. A. G. Milton, accountant and actuary, were employed in the examination by the Department.

The bonds, stocks, and like securities were appraised as to their market values on Dec. 31, 1883, by Drexel & Co. of Philadelphia and Donnell, Lawson & Co. of New York. The titles to real estate and also the title evidences of investments in ground rents, bonds and mortgage were examined and found perfect by Nathaniel E. Janney of Philadelphia, a skilled conveyancer of approved reputation. The real estate and real estate securities located in the States of Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware and Maryland were appraised by Abraham Ritter of Philadelphia and in the States of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Missouri and the District of Columbia by T. A. Selover of Cleveland, E. A. Warfield of Chicago, and O. D. Barrett of Washington.

The report of Mr. Plympton, embodying also the reports of the other parties named in regard to the matters submitted to their particular investigation, is on the Department files and to be referred to for special information.

REPORT OF THE

The result of the examination as shown by these reports, in which I have full confidence, approved the business management of the company as honest and capable, and verified its financial condition on Dec. 31, 1883, as follows:

Gross liabilities,	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	7,704,766	69

UNION MUTAL LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY OF AUGUSTA, MAINE.

On November 21, 1883, the license of this company to do business in Massachusetts was revoked in consequence of its refusal to allow an examination of its condition and affairs which I had proposed to make.

Recently it made application for readmission and submitted itself to examination under the law.

Since the revocation of its license the company has been exhaustively examined by the commissioners or agents of the insurance departments of the States of Maine, New Hampshire, New York, Ohio and Illinois, and their report has been given to the public. For the purpose of official action I have felt justified in accepting substantially their valuation and verification of the company's assets as contained in its statement now filed with the department, and also the general facts found by them as to its present financial condition, which thus appears solvent by fixed legal standards. One item admitted by the commissioners is a loan of $150,000, with accrued interest of about $90,000, aggregating the sum of $240,000, secured by mortgage of property of the University of Chicago. The validity of this mortgage is contested on the ground that the mortgaged premises were inalienable by the mortgagors under the terms of the original grant to them, and the controversy now pends in the United States Court upon proceedings for foreclosure. Should the company prevail in the litigation, as it ought in equity and good conscience to do, as I believe it will in law, the company will realize the principal part of its claim, though it may prudently anticipate some loss. Even should it fail altogether, the loss, though severe, will still leave the company with a solvent surplus upon the basis of the commissioners' valuation.

The company reported its surplus, December 31, 1875, as $1,241,615. In fact, by the legal test, it was then, I am convinced, insolvent, and without power in its normal resources to assure the fulfilment of its obligations. The apparent surplus, and more, was made up of worthless assets and overvaluation of actual assets. Its surplus as certified to the Department December 31, 1876, was $101,565; and December 31, 1877, but $37,351. Its officers acknowledged all they could without confessing insolvency.

"At the end of 1877," the commissioners say in their report, "the assets were still further marked down upon the books of the company, by order of the Board of Directors. From that time the property of the company has increased steadily in value and productiveness."

This mark down, as appears by the company's statement for 1878, was in the sum of $137,278, and on account of mortgages and real estate. As the surplus as returned December 31, 1877, was but $37,351, it results that had the directors admitted the depreciation of its assets at the time of making up its statement for 1877, instead of after, the company would have appeared insolvent upon its own confession.

The injudicious character of the company's earlier investments, which occasioned its serious embarrassment, is evidenced by the fact that in 1875 considerably more than half of its assets consisted of loans on mortgage, and that within five years thereafter nearly or quite two-thirds of the real estate covered by the mortgages fell into its hands by foreclosure.

The commissioners state — "from 1877 the surplus of the company has steadily increased. This is partially due to the fact already stated that real estate has increased in value, and that the disbursements have reduced liabilities to a greater extent than the sum expended, and the further fact that there is considerable gain in every insurance company from the discontinuance of policies."

This statement may be made more explicit.

The present surplus of the company, as estimated by the commissioners, is $384,913.10. The gain to the company by appreciation of its assets since 1878, as appears from its annual statements, amounted to $379,180.67.

The policies of the company in force in 1876 were subject to no fixed surrender value, either by law or the terms of the insurance contract. A large body of its policy-holders lost confidence in its stability, and rather than continue the payment of premiums uncertain of the issue, thousands permitted their policies to lapse, or surrendered them for whatever the company would pay. Of the extent of these transactions some statistics gathered from the annual statements of the company testify. The number of its policies in force December 31, 1875, was 22,122, and December 31, 1878, but 15,775, although meanwhile the company issued and delivered 7,648 new policies. Within that period, of these policies there were of matured endowments and terminated by death only 1,689, while 8,017 terminated by lapse, and 4,180 by surrender; and the company disbursed in cash (in addition to premium notes and loans) over $1,000,000 in the purchase of surrendered policies. It was a profitable commerce. The commissioners remark truly, "The disbursements have reduced liabilities to a greater extent than the sum expended."

Thus the discredit into which the company fell proved an important, probably indispensable auxiliary of its recuperation, and the company strengthened itself at the cost of its individual policy-holders. This was within the law, but an inequality justified only by the exigency in which the company found itself. More recently, though in less degree, it has profited by these means, but, under less stress of its affairs, I am assured it now deals with its policy-holders in a more equitable spirit.

When the present régime took direction of its affairs the condition of the company was certainly desperate. To the causes stated, together with energy and skill, and perhaps audacity, in the later conduct of its concerns, its rescue from wreck is principally due.

The commissioners say: "The total expenses of management of the company in 1876 were $654,408.45, and in the year 1883 they were $266,667.07."

This is true. But not the whole truth. It should be added that in 1876 the premium income was $1,616,775, and in 1883 but $710,519.83; and further, that the year 1876, with which the comparison is made, was the most expensive of the company's history, the expenses of that year being $147,-317.89 larger than in the previous year, and $244,241.85 larger than in the year after. By the company's annual statements it is shown that in a series of years the ratio of its expenses to premium income has been as follows:

1874	25½	per cent.
1875	27	" "
1876	40½	" "
1877	28½	" "
1878	23½	" "
1879	34½	" "
1880	38 1/10	" "
1881	39 1/4	" "
1882	36 3/8	" "
1883	37 1/2	" "

The expense "loading" of the premiums, is stated by the commissioners to be 24 per cent. The entire premium receipts in 1883 were $710,519.83. Hence, the expenses of that year were nearly $100,000 in excess of the regular provision made for the support of the management.

A similar result is shown in each of the last five years. The company has been living beyond its proper income, and has been able to do so by reason of exceptional gains in other transactions. But a life company cannot prudently trust to supply deficits in its legitimate expense revenue from such irregular and inconstant sources as low mortality, high interest rates, advance in value of assets, or profits from surrenders and lapses. This company is admonished by prudence and sound business morals to reduce its cost of management to within the limits of its income properly applicable to that purpose, as a provision imperatively demanded for future safety.

The company's real estate, the legacy to the present administration of former improvident investments, comprises an undesirable proportion of its aggregate assets. This, however, is being reformed as rapidly as practicable, nearly a quarter of the real estate held in 1880 having since been advantageously disposed of.

I fully concur in the statement of the commissioners' report, that "the books have been found in admirable condition." The business system seems to me excellent to a degree which invites special commendation, and exceptionally efficient to enforce accountability and secure integrity and an intelligent knowledge and supervision of all the company's affairs.

While I have not made such an examination as would justify me in officially certifying the precise financial condition of the company, I assume its legal solvency on the authority of the certificate to that effect of the commissioners who made the recent examination. And the company having now frankly complied with the requisites of the law, is deemed entitled to license to do business in this Commonwealth.

JOHN K. TARBOX,

Insurance Commissioner.

LIFE, CASUALTY, AND ACCIDENT INSURANCE COMPANIES OF OTHER STATES

AUTHORIZED TO DO BUSINESS IN MASSACHUSETTS, WITH THE AGENTS
ACTING FOR THE SAME AND THE AMOUNT OF BUSINESS DONE
BY EACH AGENT, FOR THE YEAR ENDING OCTOBER
31, 1883, AS RETURNED TO THE TAX COM-MISSIONER AND BY HIM COMPILED.

EVERY AGENT OR SUB-AGENT of any insurance company not incorporated in this Commonwealth is required by law to procure from the Insurance Commissioner a CERTIFICATE OF AUTHORITY for each company for which he proposes to act. The certificate specifies the name of the agent or sub-agent, and also the name of the company for which he is authorized to act. It expires, and must be renewed, on the first day of April in each year.

To guard against the impositions of fraudulent companies and dishonest agents, the Commissioner deems it his duty to advise that parties solicited to insure in any company not chartered in this State should decline to deal with any person not holding the Commissioner's Certificate of Authority.

For list of agents and sub-agents, see page 286.
